Police Auxiliary Services Program

In order to address existing or new needs more effectively, law enforcement agencies are increasingly seeking to strengthen their operations through the use of volunteers. These citizens were initially identified and recruited by Department officials and/or individual officers and asked to carry out ad-hoc, extra-official activities at the Department's headquarters or within District stations. However, the informal structure of this activity hampered the department's efforts to identify, recruit, place, and recognize the contributions of these volunteers. To alleviate these problems and bring a greater degree of formality to this process, the Department established the Police Auxiliary Service on December 21, 1995.

The Police Auxiliary Service is a non-uniformed civilian volunteer program that is designed to use civilian volunteers (auxiliaries) to perform the following: 1. Any service or function which augments or supplements an existing function, service, or program which is staffed by employees of the Metropolitan Police Department. 2. Any service or function which creates a community service capability which would not be available under existing programs or within the level of available resources. 3. Duties assigned to a regular employee during the temporary absence of the regular employee, provided the volunteer is qualified to perform the assigned duties. 4. Duties assigned to a regular employee, on a temporary basis, during periods of heavy workload or to assist in relieving an existing backlog of work. 5. Duties which require only minimal physical demands. To participate in the Metropolitan Police Department's Police Auxiliary Program, applicants must be at least 18 years of age, have a high school education or equivalent, live in the Washington Metropolitan Area, and have no criminal record, excluding minor traffic violations.

Those units/districts interesting in having volunteers work in their respective areas are encouraged to e-mail their need for services to _____ or contact direct on 202-727-0075. A list will be compiled and as volunteers apply and are accepted units/districts will be selected in sequential and/or needed order.
